Southwest University Park is the new home for the Pacific Coast League's El Paso Chihuahuas. The Triple-A team is an affiliate of the San Diego Padres. The facility includes a capacity of approximately 9,500, including club seats, standing room and luxury suites. The ballpark also features numerous group and function spaces for holding events. In addition, there are multiple full-service bars, a kid's area, a grass berm and a prominent water feature. In addition the ballpark includes office space and two team retail stores.

The ballpark provides a world class minor league baseball experience for the El Paso area.

"Now there is a ballpark in America's Southwest that is also an artistic triumph. Not only is there stained glass, sculptures and numerous paintings, its structure is a thing of beauty."
